Patterns of Power

Inviting Young Writers into the Conventions of Language, Grades 1–5

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments

Introduction: Where Do Reading and Writing Meet?

Part 1: Getting Started with the Patterns-of-Power Process
- Chapter 1 Into Planning: What Do You Need to Do Before Teaching the Invitations?
- Chapter 2 Into the Classroom: How Do You Teach Conventions with the Invitations Process?
- Chapter 3 Into Application: How Do You Ensure Writers Apply What They Know?

Part 2: Into the Patterns-of-Power Lesson Sets
The Power of Sentences: Why Do Writers and Readers Use Sentences?
- Chapter 4 What Do Capital Letters Do?
- Chapter 5 What Do Nouns Do?
- Chapter 6 What Do Verbs Do?
- Chapter 7 What Do Sentences Do?
- Chapter 8 What Do End Marks Do?

The Power of Pairs: Why Do Writers Use Pairs?
- Chapter 9 What Do Apostrophes Do?
- Chapter 10 What Do Pronouns Do?
- Chapter 11 How Do Verbs and Nouns Agree?
- Chapter 12 Which Punctuation Comes in Pairs?

The Power of Details: How Do Writers Add Detail to Their Sentences?
- Chapter 13 What Do Adjectives Do?
- Chapter 14 What Do Comparatives and Superlatives Do?
- Chapter 15 What Do Adverbs Do?
- Chapter 16 What Do Prepositions Do?

The Power of Combining: Why Do Writers Combine and Connect Words and Sentences?
- Chapter 17 What Do Conjunctions Do?
- Chapter 18 Why Do Writers Use Compound Sentences?
- Chapter 19 Why Do Writers Use the Serial Comma?
- Chapter 20 Why Do Writers Use Complex Sentences?

Conclusion: Look Up!

Professional Bibliography

Children’s Literature Bibliography

Index